All U Got 2 Do was inspired by a text by Reverend Milton Brunson which appears on a 1990 release called Black Gospel Explosion. Along with the Brunson text, the piece uses a transformed recording of the introduction to the Benedictus of Beethoven's Missa Solemnis. The live player tries to follow the Reverend's advice by playing as few notes with as much attention as possible. The piece was originally written for Hammond organ, but it can also be played on violin. Other instruments might work as well, I'm open to you trying it. The score is minimally notated: you will want to shape the expression of the piece in your own way. The best performances will create a fragile balance between immobility and hope.

all you got to do is stand still
study yourself
be real

and god'll give you the power won't he do it?
somebody know what I'm talking about?
won't he give you
power?

power to live right
power to think right
power to speak right
power to do right

god'll give you
power
